2. [redacted] states that on 11 March al-Liswi and five of his followers - Shafiq al-Hut; Yusuf Nim'ah, a tailor from Haifa; two unidentified men from Haifa, and one from Jaffa - held a communist meeting at the Palestine refugee camp at Burj al-Barajani, Lebanon.

3. Faris Sirhan had received advance notice of the time and place of the meetings. He contacted some of the inhabitants of the camp and persuaded them to give al-Liswi and his supporters a beating when they arrived at the camp and also arranged with the Şûret-i to send a force of Gendarmes to the camp to arrest al-Liswi and his followers.

4. When al-Liswi began to give a speech at the meeting in the camp, the group which Sirhan had assembled assaulted al-Liswi and his friends and drove them from the camp; however, they succeeded in escaping, because the Gendarmes sent by the Surete to make the arrests failed to arrive at the appointed time. Sirhan's group, however, followed al-Liswi and later directed the Gendarmes to where al-Liswi and his supporters were living. The Gendarmes subsequently surrounded the house and arrested al-Liswi and several other persons; al-Liswi is being held for investigation.
